MARY KING TO APPEAR AT BRISTOL CONCERT

Will Sing at Music Festival of Bristol Choral Groups

DATE IS MARCH 5TH

The forthcoming program by the Bristol high school choral clubs on March 5th will include several new features.

First it will be a program given entirely by vocal groups (the school band giving its program in May). This is done in order to give more students a chance to participate. Secondly, the various groups will perform on risers placed on the auditorium floor which will make them much closer to the audience. Banked in a small opening of the stage curtain will be flowers and palms which will create a background for the choral groups and also for soloists, trios and quartets which will perform by the piano from the stage front. The final feature of the concert is to bring into the school program once more a guest soloist. She is Mary King, sister of Charles Quigley, the concert director, who has had wide and varied experience as a singer in opera, concert, stage and radio circles. She has appeared with both Chicago and Philadelphia opera companies in title roles; been soloist on several large commercial radio programs; in leading roles with Allentown Light Opera Company; and several Philadelphia theatres. She has a long list of similar concert and stage performances to her credit. She will be accompanied in her two sets of numbers by Charles Westel, well-known Philadelphia pianist and lecturer, and director of the Westel Institute of Music.

Paul Brown, of the school faculty, is promoting this year's concert, aided by the music council and many students of the music clubs. The program of group numbers

CHALLENGE TO DUEL

"To the Editor:
Just read your editorial of last Monday.
Tell us about that duel."

READER.

The true story of the impeachment of President Andrew Johnson, and his "acquittal" by the lopsided score of 19 votes for innocent to 35 for guilty (36 votes were needed for removal), is an almost wholly ignored chapter of American history.

When few historians, statesmen, orators and commentators appear to know what Johnson was impeached for, how his trial was conducted, or how overwhelming was the majority of the U. S. Senate which voted to oust him from the Presidency, it is not astonishing that lesser details such as the near-duel during the trial should have faded from memory.

This was one of the last recorded public challenges for a duel in American history (several occurred in Congress just before the Civil War)—and, under all circumstances, was one of the most spectacular ever known.

After he had been impeached and summoned to trial before the U. S. Senate, with the U. S. Chief Justice presiding, President Johnson advised the Chief Justice that he would not appear in person, but would be represented by five persons as his counsel. One of these was Thomas A. R. Nelson, of Tennessee.

Nelson was the man who made the challenge—or, at least, uttered the words which the Senate understood to be a challenge to a duel, and which he, given the opportunity, declined to deny had that intention.

The man challenged was Benjamin F. Butler—Civil War General, military ruler of occupied New Orleans, widely-known lawyer, and a stormy petrel in politics more than once discussed as a Presidential possibility.

How did the situation arise which led to the challenge? Since the precedents for impeachment of Presidents are so little known, and since the Johnson case is the only such trial on record, it is worth while to run through the record and see the successive steps that threw the President's Counsel and Congressman Butler into such spectacular collision before the body of the U. S. Senate.

On February 21, 1868, one Congressman Covode rose on a privileged question in the House of Representatives and offered the following resolution:

"Resolved, That Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, be impeached of high crimes and misdemeanors."

The resolution was referred to the Committee on Reconstruction. The following day this Committee, after considering this resolution and others associated with it, reported back to the House of Representatives favoring the impeachment.

The vote on impeachment was taken in the House on February 24, 1868. It was first recorded as 125 for, 47 opposed, and 17 not voting. The Speaker of the House, who ordinarily does not vote except in a tie, insisted that his constituents were entitled to a voice in a matter of such gravity. He therefore voted, raising the "ayes" to 126.

On motion of Pennsylvania's Thaddeus Stevens, a committee of seven was set up to prepare articles of impeachment. Butler was not among these seven. But after the articles had been prepared, and when it came to be a question of naming the "managers" to conduct the prosecution of Johnson before the U. S. Senate.

URGE HIGHER PAY FOR TEACHERS HERE

Fathers' Association Committee Appears Before School Board

LETTER IS READ

The opening of the meeting of the Bristol school board was enlivened last evening by the presence of a committee of six representing the Bristol Fathers' Association. The committee, through a letter addressed to the board and through its spokesmen, urged the board to increase teachers' salaries, so that teachers of a high calibre might be attracted to the teaching faculty here.

The committee consisted of William H. Pearson, chairman; Anthony Gilardi, Harry Streeter, George Perkins, John Fields and Horace Jetties.

Upon granting the courtesy of the floor to the visitors by Mrs. William H. Harding, a letter addressed by the committee to the board, was read by Anthony Gilardi. Mr. Gilardi informed the board that out of a total of 100 postal card ballots returned to the association by individuals, only one had been against increasing teachers' salaries. At this point Mrs. Harding asked the question "Are the signers property owners?" She enlarged upon the question by stating that any increases given in salaries would have to come from money raised through taxation on properties, as the per capita tax now in existence is at the maximum amount. Mr. Gilardi was unable to answer the question directly.

Mr. Gilardi made it plain that the Fathers' Association is interested in the children, primarily, and that it wants to see a teachers' salary schedule adopted here so that the borough schools would not be on a competitive basis with other localities in obtaining good teachers.

U. S. Bomber Completes First Round-the-World Non-Stop Flight

Fort Worth, Tex. — A giant United States Airforce B-50 bomber today completed the first non-stop around the world flight in history. The flight was made in 94 hours even.

A new mid-air refueling technique made the unprecedented flight possible. B-29 "tankers" were used to re-fuel the B-50 at four points of the trip.

The plane with its 14 crew members maintained an average air speed of more than 249 miles an hour for the 23,452 miles flown.

BRISTOL SCHOOL DIRECTORS VOTE PAY BOOST FOR TEACHERS; MEANS INSTRUCTION INCREASE OF $17,000

Starting Salary for Instructors in System Will Be $2,300, Instead of $2,000 Mandated by State — Effective With Start of Term Next Fall — Authorize Submission of Plans for New High School on Beaver street Tract to Federal Government Authorities.

Bristol public school teachers were given a pay boost last night by the school board which will mean an approximate total increase in the cost of instruction amounting to $17,000 or $7.025 above mandated increases.

The starting salary for teachers in the system will be $2,300, instead of $2,000, which is mandated by the state. Each teacher, at present, in the faculty, is given an increase of $350 or such increase as will bring salary up to mandated maximum, such increase not to exceed $350. Each teacher would ordinarily receive an increase of $150 under the mandate.

Increases hereafter are to be on a merit basis. The salary change is to become effective with the start of the new term in the fall.

An elaborate evaluation chart is being prepared to be used as a yardstick to determine the merits of teachers for increases.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan
(Distributed by International News Service)

I see President Truman is getting another honorary degree next week. He keeps adding letters to his name . . . and Pearson's.

He now has six degrees of Doctor of Laws but he can't seem to get Congress to fill his prescriptions.

And it's understandable that he should be a little annoyed. The way some members of Congress act you'd think the people elected him to prescribe for the nation.

The only degree Dewey got recently was 10 below zero on his tax proposals.

Anyway the vegetarian candidate in last year's contest is to be commended. He offered us spinach and said it was spinach.

But '52 may be another exciting political year. . . . Three haberdashers failed last week and a baritone flunked an audition.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 2, 1949

HOW DO THEY DO IT?

A few days ago the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, Department of Agriculture, released a report indicating that the meat supply, following the spring marketing of hogs, will be more abundant, with prices leveling off. By 1950 the meat supply will be still more abundant, with prices declining to a lower and stable level.

That is the way Washington jobholders see it, but what do practical livestock men say? The severe winter has taken its toll of cattle and sheep, early marketing has been forced, hogs have required more feed to put on fat in the cold weather, and there may be a severe meat shortage by summer.

Of course, union members whose income is three times the figure of a few years ago would like to learn that meat will be available at 1933 quotations in the near future, but meat producers say it will be a hot day in January when that comes to pass.

Many persons are beginning to wonder if government experts ever talk to practical men who live with their bread and butter affairs day by day.

HUGE PACKAGE

Administration social security bills, on which hearings are now starting, are overwhelming in their scope. If adopted, they will entail increased payroll taxes. The total effect is therefore difficult to evaluate.

The bills provide for extension of present and proposed social security "benefits" to an additional 20,000,000 persons, including the self-employed, farm and domestic workers, employees of the federal government and of non-profit corporations, and state and local employees in states that contract for this coverage. This would boost the number of persons included to 50,000,000 and their dependents.

"Benefits" would be raised to nearly twice the amounts provided in the present law. For women, they would start at age 60 instead of 65.

"Beneficiaries" would be permitted to earn up to $50 a month (the figure now is $15) before losing any "benefits."

New "benefits" not now available would be paid. There would be disability insurance for limited periods, ranging from $8 to $45 a week, according to income and number of dependents. Federal payments to the needy are another new proposal.

Costs would mount. After the program had been in effect six months, they would reach double the present social security payroll deductions for persons making less than $3,000 a year, and more than triple present deductions for persons making more than $4,800. Employers' matching contributions, which have some inhibiting effect on wages, would keep step.

Within five or 10 years, the bills anticipate, the number of "beneficiaries" reaching 65 would become so great that further increases (either in payroll deductions or in general taxes) would be necessary.

Challenge To Duel

Senate, two committee members were dropped and two new "managers" appointed — one of them being Butler.

Butler rapidly came to dominate the prosecution. By the time the trial actually started, on March 30, 1868, he was the one who made the opening argument. Throughout the trial, he was the principal interrogator of witnesses. Regardless of his many defects, he was a brilliant, quick-witted lawyer — a bold and resourceful tactician. His forcefulness tore rapidly through a mass of evasion, circumlocution and rhetoric with which the Johnson counsel undertook to bog the trial down.

On the other hand, brilliant as were his superficial gifts, and skillful as he was in taking quick advantage of minor turns during the trial, he lacked an element of true greatness. His handling of the trial was spectacular, a masterly exhibition of Trial Sessions skirmishing. But he was far nearer to Perry Mason than Daniel Webster. The essential dignity and integrity of the trial, so urgently needed in view of its tremendous importance to the American system of government, slipped through his fingers. His leadership in the prosecution was a tragic mistake. As the trial proceeded, his influence waned. He had less and less to do, and in the long arguments and summations which closed the case, took no pre-arranged part.

The duel-challenge came about when he interjected himself into this part of the trial — or was drawn into it, whichever you choose.

In attempting to weaken the standing of the prosecutors of Andrew Johnson before the Senate, Counsellor Nelson brought into the case a letter concerning a claim, which letter he alleged to have been drawn up by Butler AFTER the impeachment of President Johnson. This, he argued, represented a grossly improper form of pressure being brought upon the Chief Executive by a man about to be one of his principal prosecutors in his trial before the Senate.

General Butler, who appears to have been absent when this accusation was made, obtained the floor at a subsequent meeting for the purpose of replying to Nelson's accusations. His explanation was that the letter in question had been drafted long before the impeachment proceedings had begun, that he had merely drawn it up as a legal service for a friend, and that he had no interest whatsoever in the outcome of the claim involved.

He then went into a vitriolic exhortation of Nelson, saying, among other things:

"The veniest tyro in the law in the most benighted portion of the southern country ought to know that in no court, however rude or humble, would an attack be allowed upon the absent or counsel engaged in a cause upon a statement of pretended facts, unsupported by oaths, unsifted by cross-examination, and which those to be affected by them had no opportunity either to verify or dispute."

The rest of Butler's talk bristled with words like "calumny," "deliberate falsehood," "falsity," etc., and was accompanied by an affidavit from those prosecuting the claim that Butler's only contribution to the matter was his opinion on the merits of their case, which involved a field of law in which he was an acknowledged expert.

Nelson, stung to the quick, replied somewhat in kind. He accused Butler of "undeserved imputations," "with insult and outrage," and with "insinuating calumny."

His remarks included the following:

"So far as any question that the gentleman (Butler) desires to make of a personal character with me is concerned, this is not the place to make it. Let him make it elsewhere if he desires to do it."

The implications of such a remark, under such circumstances, and coming from a man of Nelson's background, were only too clear. He was immediately called to order from the floor of the Senate, and swung back to an unsuccessful attempt to defend his unwarranted accusations based on the letter in his possession.
He was sufficiently rattled so that he made bad slips of the tongue with which Butler was prompt to taunt him.

Most of the next session of the trial was taken up in discussing Nelson's challenge, and what should be done about it. Nelson attempted to speak, but was silenced to permit the offering of an order for consideration by the Senate, which, after quoting the offending remark, read as follows:

"And whereas such language, besides being discreditable to these proceedings, is apparently intended to provoke a duel or to signify a willingness to fight a duel, contrary to law and good morals: Therefore

"Ordered, that Mr. Nelson, one of the counsel of the President, has justly deserved the dis-approbation of the Senate."

Butler promptly suggested that the matter be dropped, aside from permitting the offending letters to be read into the record for the purpose of vindicating himself and any others involved in Nelson's accusations.

Nelson then conceded that he had spoken "under the heat of provocation," and agreed he was willing to permit the challenge to drop.

The question of the order of "disapprobation" for Nelson's remark was brought up again the following day. Nelson was asked point blank whether "it was his intention to challenge the manager alluded to a mortal combat."

Nelson's reply was somewhat involved, but the answer to this question was contained, in essence, in the following sentence:

"I cannot say I had particularly the idea of a duel in my mind, as I am not a duelist by profession; but nevertheless, my idea was that I would answer the gentleman in any way in which he chose to call upon me for it."

Thereupon, by a vote of 35 to 10, the resolution to censure Nelson was tabled.

Nelson appears to have taken no active part in the rest of the trial. His name does not appear thereafter on the index of the proceedings.

But the episode produced a most significant shifting in the course of the Johnson trial. There is an old and cynical adage among attorneys of a certain type, to the effect of this: "If you have a weak case for your client—try the prosecutor!"

And that is what went on in the closing stages of the Johnson trial. It was no longer the President who was on trial, but Butler — the most active of the prosecutors. The closing briefs in defense of Johnson had far less to say on behalf of Johnson than they did in derogation of Butler.

From being a tug of war between Congress, backed by the people, on one side, and a stubborn, sharp-tongued president on the other, the trial slid into a sort of popularity contest between the man in the White House and a spectacular, erratic figure who had been in as much hot water, and made as many personal enemies, as perhaps any American since Aaron Burr!

Right up to the closing days of the trial, the leaders of Congress appear from the trial record to have been confident that the impeachment would succeed. They discussed measures for the succession, and made elaborate plans for what would happen when the removal had taken place.

The final crystallization in the Senate seems, judging from the record, to have taken place in the final stages of the trial.
The extent to which the episode of the duel, which focussed the full spotlight on the unfortunate personality of Butler, helped cut down the needed majority by the one vote which prevented Johnson's removal from office — that is a question for historians to mull over.

THE GREAT GAMEOF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Labor Bill Facts

Washington, Mar. 2.

AS, certainly, only a small minority of the members of House and Senate have themselves read either the Taft-Hartley Act or the substitute which the Truman Administration seeks to force through Congress, it, of course, is to much to expect the average citizen to grasp details of this issue or discern clearly the facts behind the multitudinous arguments and allegations on both sides.

HOWEVER, it is not too much to expect them to understand the more unconvoluted and basic things which protrude and concerning which there is little dispute. The first of these is that the real force behind the drive to repeal are the CIO bosses and their publicity agencies. Of course, the AFL is also for repeal, but from the start of the fight last session it has played second fiddle to the CIO. It is from the latter that the pressure on the President chiefly comes, the political threats emanate and the propaganda flows. In brief, though the AFL, the United Mine Workers and the Railroad Brotherhood leadership occupy the same position, primarily of course, the CIO One reason is the CIO relations with the White House are closer, and their Truman support in the election was more active and solid.

A SECOND unconvoluted and basic thing is that the anti-Taft-Hartley propaganda is so vastly greater than the pro-Taft-Hartley propaganda that, except for the CIO, consideration of the latter is commonly omitted. Most of the former has been and is being manufactured by the CIO. In volume, in volume and in cost it has exceeded all previous propaganda — on any proposition in our peacetime history. It also has broken all records for reckless statements and unrestrained misrepresentation. This is a provable and not often disputed fact, except of course by the CIO publicists. Literally, millions of dollars have been spent by the combined labor unions on anti-Taft-Hartley publicity — but more by the CIO than all the others.

A THIRD unconvoluted and basic thing is that in their fight to repeal the Taft-Hartley Act, its opponents make almost no show of concern for the public interests. The labor bosses frankly ignore them. Avowed-ly, their concern is exclusively for the labor unions, which means themselves. They do not pretend to be concerned about anything else. As for the Administration, its pretense of protecting the public interests against the unrestrained labor-boss power is economically strange; the nation is so flimsy as to be wholly negligible.
Certainly, a far more robust pretense would be obliterated by the unadulterated Administration acceptance and support of the CIO propaganda.

THIS has been true from the start.
Perhaps, the most significant evidence was in Mr. Truman's veto message last year in which he used not only the arguments of Mr. Lee Pressman assailing the Taft-Hartley bill but much of his actual language. It will be recalled that at that time Mr. Pressman was general counsel of the CIO. Months ago he was ousted from the organization because of his Communist affiliations and leanings. Subsequently, he became one of Mr. Wallace's campaign managers. Since the election, neither Mr. Truman nor his Secretary of Labor, Mr.
Maurice Tobin, or his Attorney General, Mr. Clark, have done more than wave a feeble hand in the direction of the public interests. All of their fiery gestures have been for the labor bosses whose views are fully reflected in the Administration proposals and whose influence is dominant in the White House.

A FOURTH and unconvoluted and basic fact is that the Administration attitude is so clearly political as to leave little room for any fair consideration of the merits of the legislation and almost none for the people of the United States outside the unions. The claim of the CIO and the other labor factions is that Mr. Truman could not possibly have been elected but for them. Mr.
Truman and his aides have fully accepted that claim. During the campaign Mr. Truman joined with them in denouncing the Taft-Hartley Act as a monstrous and evil thing. Thus committed up to his neck, after his election there was nothing for Mr. Truman to do save follow the CIO lead in the effort to wipe Taft-Hartley off the books.
And that is what he is doing despite the fact that a majority of the members of his own party in the last Congress voted to put it on.

EVEN the most virulent CIO propa-gandists will find it hard successfully to contradict these statements.

There is not one but can be proved to the hilt. To be sure, there is in either the T-H Act or of the Administration proposals. But once their truth is admitted — as it must be by fair-minded men — there can be little doubt as to which is the meritorious side. The outstanding thing to keep in mind is that having regained their White House influence through Mr. Truman's election, and having their political indispensability fully accepted by him and his strategists, this is a fight by the labor bosses to achieve unrestricted power and complete legal immunity. If they win, they will,
for a while, dominate the country.
In the end, however, it will react against the whole labor movement, because unrestricted power is always abused and abuse of power brings its own punishment. Meanwhile, the interests of the people and of the nation, deeply involved in this situation, are in a secondary position.

Today's Quiet Moment

By the Rev. Charles H. Weller
Pastor
Bristol Methodist Church

Psychiatry has established the fact in our day, that deep buried resentments are the cause of a wide variety of physical ills. To forgive from the heart is a form of health insurance which is available to all. To surrender resentments to God and expose them to a trusted friend or to the person wronged, will pay dividends far beyond our power to imagine, in health and happiness. A genuine humility, a leap of faith, the adventure of real forgiveness would introduce many a person to a new wonder world. O Christ, help me to forgive genuinely and graciously. Amen.

Pvt. Harrington Now On Tokyo Sentry Duty

TOKYO, Japan, Mar. 2 — John H. Harrington, of Bristol Terrace II, Bristol, Pa., was recently promoted to the rank of private, it was announced by GHQ Hometown News Service at General MacArthur's Headquarters in Tokyo.

An alumnus of Buckingham high school, class of 1936, Buckingham, Pa., and former employee of Bristol Pura, Inc., Harrington entered the Army at the Philadelphia Recruiting Service, and was sent to Fort Dix, N. J. for basic infantry training with the Ninth Infantry Division. Upon completion of his initial indoctrination, he traveled to Fort Lawton, Wash., for processing prior to embarking on his tour of duty in the Far East Command.

Arriving in GHQ in late November, 1948, he was assigned to the GHQ Guard Company, Headquarters and Service Group, General Headquarters. Performing the duties of a sentry, Harrington stands post at the many General Headquarters installations in the Tokyo area. GHQ Guard furnishes a nightly "roving patrol" for women and men's billets, guarding against larceny and other events detrimental to the command or its personnel.

Men in the General Headquarters Guard Company receive rigorous training, as they must be of an alert mental calibre, and have the physical stamina to stand their posts, in true military fashion, for a period of four hours at a single time.

Harrington plays softball with the company team, and has traveled to various points of interest in and around Tokyo. He is recording on film, for his friends and family at home, a pictorial record of the rice-paddies and ancient shrines, colorful dress and scenic beauty of the Japanese islands.

Pvt. Harrington's wife, Mrs. Helen Harrington, is presently residing at Bristol Terrace II. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Harrington, reside at Bloomsburg, Pa.

"Don't let taxes scare you," Mr. Gilardi said, addressing his remarks to Mrs. Harding. He then cited the large number of children who travel by the Pennsylvania Railroad every day to attend schools outside of the community. He said that this proves that parents will spend more for the education of their children. To this Mrs. Harding raised the question that many of those going out of the community go to attend Catholic high schools.

Harry Streeter, another member of the committee, said he wanted the board to feel that the Fathers' Association is 100 per cent in back of it. He complimented the board on the improvements made in the home economics department.

John Dougherty, a member of the school board, informed Mr. Streeter that the schedule submitted by the teachers would impose a terrific burden upon the board over a five year period. He said that in his opinion the economics of the community would not stand it. "Many people here are buying their homes under a mortgage plan, and to impose heavy taxes upon them would mean additional hardships."

One of the committee spokesmen then raised the issue of school teachers working on second shifts in industrial plants after completing their teaching day in the public schools. An instance was cited and name given, showing that one teacher gets a take-home pay from the school system of over $60 per week. Added to this of course are the necessary deductions such as the amount which is paid into the state retirement fund for personal benefit. This created considerable discussion, and some of the members of the committee told the board that they thought a teacher should not be allowed to seek outside employment when receiving a salary of this amount. It was stated that they did not believe such an individual could do justice to the children in the school room.

The committee, at this point, concluded its discussion with the board, and through its chairman, William H. Pearson, thanked the board for the courtesy extended.

The letter read by Mr. Gilardi is as follows:

To the Board of Education:

At the February 17th meeting of the Fathers' Association, the following motion was passed: "That the Fathers' Association would support the public school teachers in their request for a salary schedule."

This motion was unanimously approved by the members in attendance. However, we thought that all members should be given an opportunity to express their opinions, so letters were mailed to the membership with an enclosed card.

The card was prepared so that each member not in attendance at the meeting would be given an opportunity to register his wishes to this committee in time for this school board meeting. The results of this survey are submitted for your information and consideration.

Since both the board and our Association are sincerely interested in the welfare of the Bristol Public Schools and realizing the responsibility you have to the taxpayers of the community, we believe our support and encouragement for favorable action on the teachers' salary schedule is in the best interests of our schools and the community as a whole.

Our sole interests are for better schools in Bristol. We come to you in a helpful spirit, confident that you are interested in knowing the wishes of some of the taxpayers. The very fact we are members of such an Association as the Fathers' Association indicates the reason for our deep interests in this problem and we would like to be recognized as friends of the schools and not special interests with an axe to grind.

Bristol's predicament is not unique, the situation is country-wide and each community is now faced with similar problems. However, the universality of the problem does not allay the individual community's responsibilities to its own boys and girls.

Dr. Willard E. Goslen, Superintendent of Schools in Pasadena, California, and President of the Administrator's Group of the N. E. A., states that "the teacher crisis is a matter of plain dollars and cents." The American people are not willing to pay for good school teachers—or at least they have not been up to the present.

Even with increased salaries, the teacher earns less today than members of the other professions. In fact, the average teacher's salary of $2,500 is less than the average earned by factory workers. "But it is not solely a question of money, important as that is. Prestige is a factor, too. In the old days, Dr. Goslen observed, the schoolmaster used to be one of the most important men in the community. Today, however, the prestige of the teacher has dropped considerably. The community apparently no longer considers school teachers as civic leaders or even as persons who deserve the respect and support of the parents and other citizens.

Until recently the teaching profession was one of the major outlets for able young women who wanted a career, but today women can go into a number of professions. For the most part the elementary schools have depopulated upon women exclusively—less than 15 per cent of the elementary teachers are men. With women shunning the teaching profession, and with the need for new teachers steadily increasing because of the rising birth rate, the shortage has become serious.

What is the solution? Educators here urged that the prestige of the teaching profession be raised, and that teachers be paid salaries commensurate with the important task they are performing in a democracy. In this connection, the association proposed that more funds be allocated by both State and Federal Governments."

We, as a group of parents, are interested in the social, educational and vocational growth of our children. We want the best education possible for our youth and we want teachers for them who have skill and patience, teachers with vision of the plasticity of children, through preparation on the broadest phases of human living. We want the best teachers available for these children, for these children are our sons and daughters.

BRISTOL HIGH OVERWHELMS MORRISVILLE, 52 TO 38, TO WIN LOWER BUCKS CHAMPIONSHIP

TRENTON, N. J., Mar. 2—Bristol High retained its championship of the Lower Bucks County League by overwhelming Morrisville High, 52-38, last night on the neutral Trenton Junior No. 2 floor. The tilt was a playoff of the regular season's tie between the two teams. A crowd estimated at 1,000 witnessed the game.

Bristol appeared at home on the large Junior No. 2 floor. Its zone defense had the Bulldogs baffled, forcing the Morrisville shooters to attempt field goals from bad angles of the court. Morrisville received very few shots under the baskets or within the foul circles.

On the other hand, the Warriors controlled the game from the start. They outplayed their opponents in all departments and after taking the lead towards the finish of the first quarter, kept it throughout. In the second half, the Warriors hit the 14-point victory.

Only in foul shooting was the Bristol team off. The winners had 23 shots from the foul line and converted but 10. Morrisville had the same average. Only "Jim" Sottile came up with a fine foul average, making six out of eight.

Morrisville was depending on Sottile to retire from the game via the foul route as the Bristol star committed four personals in the first half. But Sottile was very cautious and remained in the tilt until Coach Bloom decided to rest him towards the end of the game. Luckily for Bristol that Sottile did not make that fifth personal for "Jimmy" ended up with 16 points.

Chipping in with seven double-deckers for fourteen points was "Ham" Konelaf. Konelaf made several nice shots during the melee and also did some nice passing.

"Vic" Cauti started in the Bristol line-up to replace Val Bielecki who was operated upon for appendicitis on Saturday. Cauti did excellent work on the defense. Most of the time, Cauti's position in the zone gave him "Walt" Bucknum to stop. Cauti did a fine job until he was taken out via the personal foul route. Cauti went out before the first half was over but he was instrumental in holding Bucknum to three field goals which was quite a change from the recent game in Morrisville when the Bulldogs' center hit the cords for 31 points.

When Cauti left the fracas, he was replaced by "Frankie" Barbetta. Barbetta had "Ace" Henley tied in knot. Time and time again, Henley had the ball but with Barbetta overpowering him failed to get in a shot, the officials calling for jump ball.

"Jim" Marshall played his usual steady game at guard and for most of the game controlled the boards.

Bucknum was high for the losing team with 14 points with Ray Johnson contributing 8. The Morrisville guards, Tommy Gavin, Clyde Lawson, and Andy Nemeth failed in their efforts to check Bristol's high scorers, Sottile and Konelaf.

The only time Morrisville led in the tussle was at the outset when Marucci made a foul and missed another, but on the miss, Bucknum tapped the sphere into the basket for a 3-0 lead. Marshall dribbled in for Bristol and Sottile dropped in a foul to knot the count at 3-3. Johnson scored twice in succession for the Bulldogs and when Bucknum dunked a foul, the count mounted to 8-3. On a pass from De Long, Sottile registered and Konelaf whipped a pass to Marshall for a score to whittle the lead to 8-7. On a double-foul, Nemeth missed but Sottile converted to again deadlock the count at 8-8. Cauti scored on a pass from Konelaf and the Warriors were out in front, 10-8. This rose to 15-8 on field goals by Konelaf and Sottile and a foul by the latter as the quarter closed.

The seven-point edge was cut to six on Henley's foul but after Konelaf missed, DeLong leaped up and tapped the ball in. Konelaf dribbled from within the circle to score, making the count, 19-9. Lawson got the ball on a tap and hit the net but Rich scored to take it back for Bristol. Sottile passed to Konelaf for a double-decker but Henley came through with his only field goal of the night. Bucknum made a foul and followed with a side shot to make the count, 23-16. Rich picked the ball off the floor during a scrimmage and with a hook shot hit the cords. Bucknum made a side shot for Coach Doherty's team and Gavin by dribbling in cut the lead to 25-20. Cauti scored on a pass from Sottile and Bucknum dropped in a foul to make the board read, 27-21, in favor of Bristol at the half.

Bristol scored twelve point in the third session. DeLong was given two foul shots and was successful on both. Johnson's side shot gave Morrisville two. On a beautiful pivot pass from DeLong, Marshall scored with ease. Bucknum's fielder brought the score to 33-25. Marshall scored a field goal but missed the foul shot for a three-pointer. Johnson retaliated with a Morrisville two-pointer. On a tap from DeLong, Konelaf shook the cords and when Woodruff made a foul, the score was 37-28. After Sottile missed a lay-up, Konelaf followed by tapping the ball in. Nemeth's foul made the score 39-29 at the quarter.

The first five points of the final quarter were credited to Sottile. He scored on a rebound, and dribbled in to score besides adding a foul. When Konelaf checked in with a two-pointer, the score was 46-29, the highest Bristol lead of the game. Marucci scored for Morrisville but Rich got it back for Bristol. Bucknum added three points via a fielder and foul. Sottile dropped in a pair of fouls. After Rich scored a double-decker, the remaining scores were fouls by Nemeth, Pindar and Woodruff.

It was a jubilant Bristol team that went to the dressing room after the tilt. The boys were shouting that they did it for Val (the hospitalized Bielecki). Bristol plays Conshohocken in the opening round of the PIAA playoffs at Abington on Friday night.

Morrisville began to add up its points. Bob Felver paced the scorers with 16 points with "Charlie" Rauch getting fourteen for the Junior Warriors.

SEVEN TEAMS POST SOFTBALL FRANCHISES

Seven teams posted franchises at a meeting of the Bristol Suburban Soft Ball League Monday night in the Diamond Sporting Goods Store, Mill street. The teams are: Franklin, Fifth Ward, Second Ward, St. Ann's, Tullytown, Fire Company No. 1, Bristol Terrace. The managers have received temporary applications from several other teams.

The managers lost no time in getting to work on their constitution and by-laws for the 1949 season. They set their boundary limit from City Line to Morrisville and north of the Lincoln Highway. Each team will be permitted two players from outside the limits.

High school players will be barred from the loop while the baseball season is in progress at the schools, unless the coach or principal of the school affected gives the player permission to sign.

Officials have decided to have paid umpires and scorers at all games. At the next meeting of the circuit, the managers will finish their constitution and begin the work of signing players, as it is most likely that the loop will begin during the latter part of April.

JUNIOR HIGH FIVE WINS FIRST OF A 3-GAME SERIES

Before a large crowd on the high school floor last night, Frank Lucenti scored two field goals in the closing minutes of the game to give Bristol Junior High a close 26-24 win over the Sellersville-Perkasie Junior High School. It was the first game of a three-game series to determine the Bucks County Junior High championship. Bristol won the lower division crown with Sellersville-Perkasie winning the Bux-Mont championship.

Bristol Junior High was trailing, 23-22, after Hendricks had scored a two-pointer for the visitors. But Lucenti scored under the net and Bristol went ahead by one point, 24-23. Lucenti followed with another double-decker and Bristol was three points to the good. Before the horn sounded to end the game, Hendricks made a foul for Sellersville-Perkasie.

The game was hard-fought from start to finish. At one time, Bristol was enjoying a comfortable 16-11 lead in the third period but the minions of Coach Gutekunst came back strong and managed to tie up the works at the end of the quarter, 19-19.

Andrew Accardi was high for the visitors with 9 points and also gave Coach Ben Watson's team the edge by getting the ball off the boards all evening. Hendricks had 12 points to lead Sellersville-Perkasie.

It was Lucenti who made the first two points of the contest, he scoring from side court. Bristol missed three fouls in succession before Parker evened the count with a fielder. Accardi's duo of points made the count, 4-2, but Sellersville went into the lead on a foul by High and field goals shot by Hendricks.

High increased the lead to 7-4 at the start of the second canto but Gallagher got two points for Bristol. George Wren put the Bristol J. H. ahead with a fielder and Accardi's charity toss made it 9-7. This jumped to 11-7 when Wren again cut the cords. Hendricks' foul gave the invaders a point but Lucenti and Accardi were good for two-pointers. Travler sunk in a free throw to make the half-time score, 15-9.

Brady started the third period scoring with a foul but Hendricks and Crouthamel shook the cords for double-deckers and when Brady and Accardi made fouls the score was 18-13. Accardi added another foul but a pair of fielders by Hendricks and another by Parker tied the count at 19-19 at the close of the quarter.

Accardi's two-pointer put Bristol in front again, 21-19, but Crouthamel got a point on a free toss. Brady did the same for Bristol. Crouthamel made the score 23-21 with a foul and Hendricks gave Sellersville a one-point advantage with a free toss. Lucenti's finish followed.

In the preliminary games, St. Ann's Parochial School won out over St. Mark's Parochial School, 27-23, with DiCesare getting 11 points for St. Ann's and Coffey scoring six for St. Mark's.

Penn. A. C. swamped the Fourth Ward A. C., 36-29. Mulligan had 10 points for the losing team. Condit, Genco and Purcell scored five points each for Penn. A. C.

The second game of the Bristol-Sellersville-Perkasie series will be played Friday night on Sellersville-Perkasie's floor.

FIFTH WARD SPORTING CLUB FIVE TO SEEK SEVENTH STRAIGHT WIN AS IT MEETS ROHM & HAAS TONIGHT

The Fifth Ward Sporting Club will seek its seventh straight win tonight as it meets the Rohm & Haas aggregation in the first game of a double-bill on the chemical workers' floor. The second Bristol Basketball League game sees the Prof's contingents play the Morrisville Hoopers. First game is scheduled for 7:30 p. m.

Rohm & Haas was the last team to beat Fifth Ward, it turning the trick on January 14th on the high school floor. Since then, the boys of Seddie Caro have beaten every team in the circuit and now are back to the chemical mixers. A victory for the Warders will assure them of a playoff position in the loop while a defeat for Rohm & Haas eliminates all chances of that team getting in the playoffs.

If the Prof's five beats the Hoopers, it will practically clinch the regular season championship for the radiomen. Beating the Morrisville team shouldn't be a hard job for the Mill Streeters for the Hoopers have lost eight straight contests.

LOCAL BOWLERS ROLL ON PAR WITH ABC BOWLERS

The local high scores bowled this season by Bristol and Morrisville bowlers compare favorably with the best scores rolled to date in the International A.B.C. Tournament at Atlantic City. The high singles of 289 by Nolan (Morrisville) and 288 by Boccardo of Bristol, also the high three of 723 by Boccardo and the 696 by Zygmont of Morrisville would, had they been bowled in Atlantic City, be well up near the top money prizes. No Atlantic City participant has as yet rolled 723 in the singles event.

Fairweather's Cafe's 2916 for Bristol and the 2866 of Elias from Morrisville would be up in the team event prize money. Bristol's Auto Boys high single of 1984 and the 1913 high of Elias would have topped the majority of the squad single highs bowled to date. These scores have been established during regular season league play and forecast a pinfall in the coming Bristol Bowling Association City Bowling Championships. Tournament comparable with many of the national "name" teams participating in the International A.B.C. event.

Entries for the Bristol Tournament are coming in fast ahead of last year's schedule. Several teams are again this year being sponsored by local business concerns. These will be listed as soon as the entries are completed with the March 5, deadline. Any league bowler desiring to participate in the local tournament (March 29 through 26) with a league team 5 man and over doubles or singles should contact the following committee members prior to March 5—Major League, Arthur Kramers; Federal League, Michael Choma; National League, Howard Johnson; Industrial League, William Lehman; Rohm & Haas League, William Boyd; Fireman's League, Russell Vandergriff; Manhattan League, Albert Bercowitz; Morrisville Leagues, William Goodwin.

The twenty-one tournament trophies have arrived and will soon be on display at the Bowling Alleys and J. S. Lynn's. Each trophy will be listed with its donor. The rules governing the award of these trophies are the same as last year, all team trophies to be on a competitive basis and returned to competition until removed by a 2 times winner. All individual trophies are to be kept for permanent possession. This year the individual souvenirs are to be the clasps instead of miniature bowling balls.

Members of the degree team of the Degree of Pochontas, will conduct a supper at the Croydron Fire Co. station on Saturday evening from five until seven o'clock. The menu will consist of either a pork and bean or pork and sour kroust supper.

will include two opening pieces by the combined chorus and choir members. The 70 voices will render "Salutation" (Gaibes) and "The Builder" (Cadman), with John Parella, a senior, and president of the choir and music council, directing the second number. The choir will follow, singing "The Bells of St. Mary's," "The Desert Song," and "Nocturne." Two student soloists, Elida Viviani, soprano, and Edward Plovman, tenor, will sing Romberg's "One Kiss" and "The Rose of Tralee," after which a trio of sophomore girls, Helen Clotti, Elida Viviani and Marie Missera, will be heard in the ever popular "When Day is Done." A newly-formed boys glee club, using many boys from the grade schools as well as high school boys, will be heard in two selections, "The Quilting Party" and "Tavern in the Town," and a male quartet from this group will harmonize in "Home on the Range." Three selections, including a novel arrangement of the Scotch air, "The Campbells Are Coming," sung by the cappella singers, another new group, will close the first part of the program.

After an intermission, a shorter second part of the program will follow. Featured as student soloists will be Marcia VanLanzen singing "Luxembourg Garden," Joan Marsh, "Love is Where You Find It," and the popular senior baritone, Lester Shire, who will render "Just a Yearning for You." Two lively choir numbers, "Mary Had a Little Lamb," and Victor Herbert's "Italian Street Song" will follow. After another appearance of Mrs. King, the choir will conclude the program with three stirring selections, O'Hara's "One World," and Waring arrangements of "Onward Christian Soldiers" and "Battle Hymn of the Republic."
